

労働領域の精神医療化と法化：
業界誌分析による共変関係の把握

メタデータ	言語: ja 出版者: 静岡大学人文社会科学部 公開日: 2024-03-19 キーワード (Ja): キーワード (En): 作成者: 荻野, 達史 メールアドレス: 所属:
URL	https://doi.org/10.14945/0002000319

Psychiatric Medicalization and Legalization in the Labor domain

OGINO Tatsushi

This paper examines the hypothesis that there is a covariant relationship between the psychiatric medicalization and legalization of the labor domain in Japan. Approximately 20 years have passed since occupational mental health activities were expanded under government initiative. Many laws and guidelines have been issued. Labor-related lawsuits have also increased. However, the “legalization” phenomenon that I particularly focus on is legal socialization. There seems to be a growing interest in legal issues among industrial health professionals and businesspeople. This trend was confirmed by analyzing their specialized magazines.